Agenda

October 4th, 2012

The Special Topic for October will be;

“A Recap of this Year’s MiCAMP.”

Presented by;

Andrew Hartwick, GIS Director, St. Joseph County, current MiCAMP president

The Afternoon Session for October will be;

“The National Heritage Database for Michigan.”

Presented by,

Becca Rogers GIS Specialist and Database Administrator MNFI, and Edward Schools, Senior Conservation Scientist MNFI

“Michigan Natural Features Inventory (MNFI) is a self-funded program within Michigan State University Extension. MNFI is responsible for maintaining the Natural Heritage Database for Michigan. The natural heritage database is a spatial database representing the most complete compilation of rare species and high quality natural community locations within the state. In addition to the database MNFI performs a wide array of GIS based natural resource modeling and services. We will discuss the natural heritage database as well as its appropriate use and availability, products derived from the database, and other spatial datasets created and distributed by MNFI.”
